Underweight Tragedies CALL FOR DEMOCRATIC COUNTY

One Jockey Who Cost the Boss a Small Fortune by Misplac. ing His Money Belt-Another Who Forgot His Blackjack-The Load of Coal.

(Washington Post.) VETERAN public trainer, having through. charge of several small but select strings at Saratoga, had a little scare the other afternoon that caused his pulse to beat a skade faster several minutes. One of his horses had won a race, and the boy was weighing in. The clerk of the scales accidentally hit the wrong notch, and he looked up and said to the jockey, Why, son, you're four pounds under." The boy looked steadily at the scales clerk, while the trainer, who was standing right outside the weighing inbegan to get gurgly. The s of the situation was almost mmediately relieved, however, when the clerk of the scales consulted his notebook and found that he had put the weight four pounds beyond what his figures called for.

'I came might close to falling into those as-it-might-have-been reveries that have the throb of muffled drums for obligato," said the trainer in speaking of the momentary alarm the supposed short weight of his riding boy had caused him.

"Tve got a string of post-mortems about underweights and overweights as long as Wilful Pansy's next-morning narrative of a dream. All of them are low moans about lurid dough conflagrations. They left dents in me that refuse to fill out.
"You know those owners' handicaps on the western tracks, all of the horses carrying algrette weights? They're framed up to settle friendly disputes between owners as to which of the successful horses of a meeting can run fastest with a boy about the heft of a pompon on his back.

"Ten years or so ago, at the old Lexington track, I pushed a willing old campaigner of my string into one of those owners' handlcaps. He had won a couple of good races at the Lexington meeting, carrying 118 and 124 pounds ,and when they let him into this owners' handicap with eighty-two pounds I began to count the duff. I notified my wife that she might just as well be getting busy with her dressmaker if she expected to accompany me on that winter tour of Egypt that she'd been looking forward to so long. "To ride. I nailed a seventy-two-pound shaver, still in his early apprenticeship, who had been doing some pretty fair work at the meetings down the southern line. He was a weazened, shrewd little tike who saved his money and supported a large family of Kentucky mountain feudists. I had a man in Cincinnati, another in Louisville, and still another in Chi-cago to get the money down, and I took all of the 12 to 1 that there was under the betting sked at post time. I wanted to give the pool room wiremen the chance to flash the top price to the cheek, and told him that there was a thousand in it for him if he got my horse home in front. I stood to win

tip. The clerk slid the weight along till he got it to the 77 notch, and then the balance was all right.

You're five pounds under, sonny,' The boy looked at him with a moon face. I was standing outside the weighing-in inclosure, and I wasn't seeing the Sphinx at all then. "The scales clerk took the boy's gear, and looked at and weighed the lead Lead pads were all right.

This boy is five pounds under," the clerk sang out to the stewards. Winner disqualified,' said the stewards, and then the boy went boo-hoog to the jockey room.

"I found the child huddled in a cor ner, with his face to the wall, blubber-ing damply on the new colors that I'd ing damply on the new colors that I'd nave put the lamps out of a jock they put into commission for that race. I patted him along until he could talk without gulping, and then I found out all about how it had happened.

The lamps out of a jock they didn't like than not, and it was real het-up work for a boy to ride a winner at Wheeling that the black diamond delvers didn't approve of.

next to his skin, when he weighed out for the owners' handicap. After weighing out he found that the belt was un-comfortable, and the poor little beggar thoughtlessly took it off and tucked it into his locker before I put him on my That's how he came to be five pounds shy at the weighing-in.

"So the boyish desire of a little riding tad to possess a man's money belt cost me a pat $20,000-$18,000 that I stood to ginia pick-and-shovelers that tried the $1,500 blood money that I'd put up to make the winning, and the $500 purse. I spent the ensuing winter in

But I and addition to that, to hudge us to the land of the about half a minute after I'd noticed his expression. as good as saw the First Cataract. "I got her into a sux-furlong sprint for the last day of the meeting at 100 pounds in a high-weight handicap, the handicapper giving her the feather because she had never faced the starter. I got a Georgia coon boy to do the rid-ing. He was a promising boy, and I knew that he wouldn't hurt the price.

There was plenty of 40 to 1 on tap against my mare, and, again waiting for the first price to be flashed to the rooms, I batted the figure down to 15 to 1 at post time, by which time I was in line for a $40,000 clean-up if it went

"The boy weighed out for the race about three-quarters of an hour before post time, and with a few pounds of lead he maid it to a hair. I lifted the kid into the saddle, pinched him on the saddle, pinched him that there was a soon after that and we didn't even soon after that and we didn't even that the saddle we have been much worse than what I got. "My horse won that owners' handicap by the width of a swollen trout stream, and I was already lolling back in a Nile barge, blowing smoke rings at the Pyramids. And that was as near as ever I got to them—that smoke.

"You can get it going and coming at this old game, and being after the underweights, I was, of course, sooner or later due to have it the experiences. I've mentioned and several I haven't mentioned scooped up and tossed at me on account of the over weights. "The bulk of the patronage of that old Wheeling brigand track was made up of soft coal miners, and they had a cute little habit, when a horse won that they didn't want to see win, of tossing lumps of coal at the winning boy when he dismounted in front of the stand. They'd a little bit rather have put the lamps out of a jock they

A DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION COM-posed of 527 delegates, to be selected by the several voting districts of Salt Lake county, is hereby called to meet at the Salt Palace Theatre in Salt Lake City. Utah, on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 16 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating can-didates for the following offices, to be voted for at the general election which will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1984, to-wit:

One county commissioner, to serve for term of four years. One county/commissioner, to serve for One county/comm term of two years.

while an exercise boy led her up and down, when I heard a commotion in the lockeys' room. With the rest of the bunch in the paddock I hustled over to the jockeys' room to see what was coming off.

"I found my coon boy trying with all his might to get at another dinge jockey. My boog rider had a huge blackjack in his hand, and if he'd ever hit the other boog with it—even on the leg—he'd have killed him, sure. It was to most murderous looking leather-bound implement of warfare that ever I looked at.

"It appeared that on the previous do not be black had leg-locked my coon boy in a race, and by that foul method had pushed his own horse home in front by a lip. My dinge had got the black-jack had leg-locked my coon boy in a race, and by that foul method had pushed his own horse home in front by a lip. My dinge had got the black-jack for the purpose of "ptectin' hisser' in case the other dinge tried on anything like that in the race in which he was to ride my horse, and in the jockey's room he had shown the black-jack to the other boog and fold him what it was for in case of any more of the funny stuff.

"The other dinge-had got back with a taunting reply, and my coon boy had made for him with the blick/glack with a damade for him with the blick/glack with and had him what it was for in case of any more of the funny stuff.

"The other dinge-had got back with out further chaw. The special cop on duty in the paddock got the blackfack away from the Ethiopian wearing my colors for the race in which I was about to go down hook, line, and bobber, and quiet was restored in the jockey's room.

"My mare disgraced her field, winning pulled to a trot, by fifteen lengths." You're four pounds beneath, buddy, said the scales clerk to my grinning moke when Le capered onto the scales with his tack, and I never saw an ebony smile suffer a quicker ecilpse. Haven't lost any group lead, have you?" And the clerk began to poke into the lead pockets. And under the black large facial pelt certain burnt ashy tinge appeared.

"It had never for one-eighth of a second struck me that the coon had weighted out for that race with the blackjack tucked away under the tunic colors, and, if it hadn't occurred to me, what chance was there of it occurring to a basalt-headed boog from the Georgia watermelon belt?

"I got the blackjack from the special cop who had taken it from the boog. It pulled the beam at four pounds one ounce.

"During the long time it took me to cool out I was feeling kind o' sorry that somebody hadn't pasted me behind the ear with that blackjack. It couldn't have been much worse than what I got. The winter swooped down upon cs soon after that, and we didn't even made Alexandria, Va.

Miss Gilroy tells a remarkable story of her cure, which many regard as a miracle. To all intents and purposes she developed Consumption, Good doctors so pronounced it and told her she was incurable. She came to Drs. Shores & Shores, and was cured. Here is her story:

"I have suffered for a long time from what I supposed was Consumption. I contracted one violent cold after another, had a terrible cough, and finally had violent and repeated hemorrhages, lost flesh, and was all run down. My breathing was hard and painful, and Doctors teld me I was incurable. Reading of Drs. Shores & Shores great skill, I went to them and began their treatment. I improved from the first, my cough was relieved, the hemorrhages stopped. I GAINED 12 POUNDS IN WEIGHT IN ONE MONTH, and today I feel splendid, in every way, and feel that I am cured. No one can tell how grateful I am, and I feel it a Christian duty to give Drs. Shores full credit, and to advise all who are sick and despondent to see these expert specialists before they give up hope.

What "Weakness" is and How We Cure It.

So-called weakness in men is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland, brought on by early dissipation or by the improper treatment of some contracted disease. A complete and radical cure is therefore a question of restoring the prostate gland to the normal state, and this we accomplish promptly and completely without the use of internal remedies. Our treatment is a local one entirely. It is original and scientific and has been proven absolutely effective by thousands of tests. We are convinced that by no other methods can full and permanent restoration of strength and vigor be accomplished.
